

Anti-bribery and Anti-corruption

The legal requirements of every country where company does business prohibit improper payments to government officials. In addition, this Code prohibits company employees and anyone acting on the Company's behalf from offering, giving, accepting, or receiving a bribe to/from anyone. We have built a reputation as a company that operates ethically and honestly, and bribery and corruption have no place in our business. Bribery and corruption can cause irreparable harm to our good name, our business, and the communities where we do business.

What you should keep in knowledge

- Receiving or giving bribe may have adverse effect on company's reputation
- Familiar yourself with anti-bribery and anti-corruption law and company's regulations
- Familiar yourself with whistle blower policy / internal complaint mechanism to report any issues related to bribery corruption law and company's regulations

Your responsibilities

- Employees may never offer, promise, or give anything of value that could appear to be a payment — something that might encourage or reward someone for a decision to retain or obtain business.
- All employees required to complete anti-corruption training and anti-bribery

We aim to Achieve Zero cases related to Bribery and Corruption in all our operations.
